Halleck Is Quietly Backed as GOP's Nominee in 1964

WASHINGTON (AP) — Colleagues of Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana have quietly and informally launched an effort to win the 1964 Republican presidential nomination for the House minority leader.

They are sounding out some top Republican leaders and report a favorable reaction.

Halleck himself would not comment, but persons close to him said he is doing nothing to nip the move. They represent him as being "available" for the nomination and ready to make a fight for it if victory should appear within reach.

The Halleck backers claim that of all the Republicans who have been mentioned as presidential possibilities, the tough-talking, hard-hitting 63-year-old Hoosier is among the most widely known nationally. His position as House GOP leader and as one of the stars of the weekly "Ev and Charlie Show" sponsored for broadcast by congressional Republicans have kept him in the public eye.

His supporters rule out of the picture such nationally known figures as Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Halleck has harbored high political ambitions for some time. In 1948 he came within an inch of winning second place on the GOP presidential ticket headed by Thomas Dewey of New York.

While Halleck's backers were playing down Goldwater's chances for the nomination, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., said the Arizona would probably carry Georgia if Goldwater were opposing President Kennedy in a presidential election today.

Russell said Goldwater's political stock is "selling far above any publican par that's ever been known in Georgia."

Kefauver Rites Due Tuesday

Tennessee Honored As Senate Adjourns

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate adjourns today as a mark of respect for Sen. Estes Kefauver, the Tennessee Democrat with the big handshake who died Saturday.

The quiet-spoken lawyer who battled organized crime and monopolies during his 24 years in Congress will be buried Tuesday in the family cemetery near the Kefauver farm home at Madisonville, Tenn.

A military plane will carry Kefauver's body to Tennessee Tuesday morning. Mrs. Kefauver, their children and a congressional delegation will be aboard another plane.

The senator's body will lie in state at the First Baptist Church in Madisonville, for four hours before the simple mid-afternoon services at the farm. The services will be conducted on the porch of the family home.

An estimated 500 persons paid their respects Sunday at a Washington funeral home to the tall Tennesseean who was the 1956 Democratic vice presidential candidate on the ticket headed by Adlai E. Stevenson. Kefauver had sought the presidential nomination that year and in 1952.

The senator died of a ruptured aorta, the main artery from the heart. He had entered Bethesda Naval Hospital Thursday night after suffering what aides described as a mild heart attack.

Informing on Cape Cod of Kefauver's death, President Kennedy said the senator was "a public servant of energy, integrity and talent. His devotion to the public interest made him a powerful influence for good in our nation's affairs."

Coeds, Teacher Face Dope Counts

CLEVELAND (AP) — Police called to investigate a "noisy" party on the East Side early Sunday confiscated $100 worth of marijuana and arrested 12 persons—six men and six women.

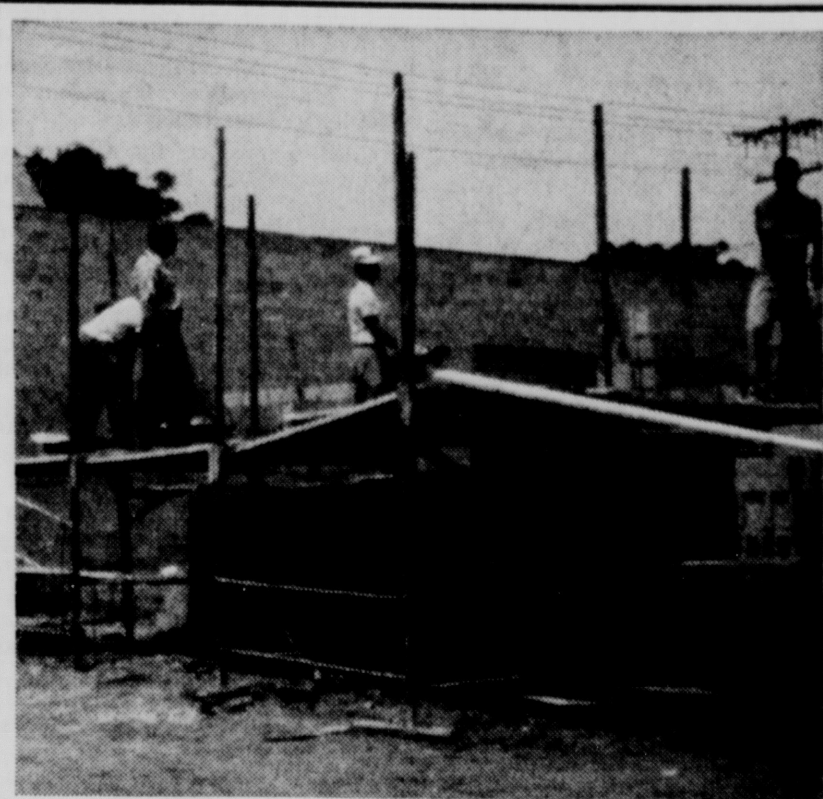

Included among those arrested were three Western Reserve University coeds, an 18-year-old girl and a 24-year-old high school teacher.

Thirteen packets of crude bulk marijuana, one vial of powdered marijuana and a vial of pills were taken by police from the house in the University Circle area.

Police said a 22-year-old student at Kent State University admitted orally that he had supplied the marijuana.

Canada Ups Bank Rate

OTTAWA (AP)—The Bank of Canada has raised its lending rate to 4 per cent, effective immediately. The rate had been 3½ per cent since May 6.

GOING UPWARD — Construction of the new Second National Bank on E. Main St. is moving along at a fast pace. Masonry work on the 45 by 80-foot structure is expected to be completed in about three more days. Final completion is expected around the end of this year.

News of World in Brief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Three Toledoans asked the Ohio Supreme Court today for an order requiring Secretary of State Ted W. Brown to grant them a corporation charter.

Attorney Merritt W. Green filed the mandamus action after Brown denied a corporation-for-profit charter to Ohio Workmen's Compensation Consultants Inc.

Other would-be incorporators are Merritt W. Green II and Robert A. Burns, 400 security Building, Toledo.

They said the corporation would furnish consulting service for employers, labor organizations and to conduct workshops to teach provisions of the compensation laws.

Brown turned down the application on grounds that statute prevents corporations from practicing law.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—House Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan, chairman of the Legislative Service Commission, announced today the makeup of the committee directed to study Ohio's welfare system before the General Assembly returns Dec. 2.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A 53-year-old man was caught rapping a 10-year-old girl in Mill Creek Park yesterday and was arrested after a fight with a park policeman, police said. He was held on an open charge.

Deputy Ray Carroll said he was patrolling the playground area when he saw the man assaulting the girl in some woods. Carroll said he grabbed the man from behind and they fought. The man

Peace Corps Girls Taste Of Hazards

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP)—Two 21-year-old women Peace Corps candidates have received a taste of hazards without ever leaving the country.

Elizabeth H. McMillan of Mentor and Susan M. Schwartz of Long Beach, N.Y., were rescued from the face of a 250-foot shale cliff in the Vermilion River gorge Sunday.

They were on a three-day field trip and had just hiked 11 miles from the Oberlin College campus when they missed a footpath and started down the wooded rim of the cliff. The women paused to eat their lunch and then realized they were stuck — they could neither climb down or get back up.

One of them slipped and almost fell. Then they began to shout for help.

Their rescuers were William Klucas, telegraph editor of the Elyria Chronicle Telegram, and Ronald Whiterad, manager of the firm which supplies the Peace Corps camp with food.

Klucas and Whiterad climbed to the pair and tied ropes to a tree to lower the girls to the river bed.

The two women are among 48 trainees on a 10-week program at Oberlin College. They will teach English in the West African nations of Ivory Coast, Cameroon and Gabon.

broke away, the policeman said, and tumbled down a 25-foot embankment. He was found dazed, standing in waist-high water of Mill Creek.

BOSTON (AP)—The bathyscaphe Trieste will set out Wednesday to rejoin the long search for remains of the nuclear attack submarine Thresher.

Trieste was pulled off the search last July 1 after making five dives to the ocean bottom. The bathyscaphe underwent an overhaul at Boston.

The Thresher sank during a test dive April 10 with 129 men aboard about 220 miles east of Boston.

ALBANY N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says the Senate should ratify the limited nuclear test ban treaty but the United States must not be lulled into a costly letdown of Western military might.

Rockefeller, a potential presidential candidate, endorsed the treaty Sunday with numerous reservations.

The treaty must be approved, Rockefeller said, because "it has become the symbol of the hopes of peace of millions" and because "the prestige of the United States already has been solemnly committed."

JACKSON Wyo. (AP)—Among a group of Sherpa mountaineers who visited northwestern Wyoming Sunday was Nawang Gombu, who reached the summit of Mt. Everest last spring along with the first Americans to climb the world's highest peak.

One small admirer asked Gombu what he was thinking about when he stood at the rooftop of the world.

His answer: "How to get down."

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP)—About 150 women were stricken with what hospitals called "suspected food poisoning" following a Sunday dinner at the nearby Orchard Lake schools near Pontiac, hospital authorities said.

Fifteen women remained in the Ontario cities of Paris and Brantford. Most of the other cases were diagnosed as mild and the patients were released after brief treatment.

The women, all over 50 years old, were among more than 800 who dined on the multiple-school campus following Marian Day exercises at which Richard Cardinal Cusing, archbishop of Boston, spoke.

NEW YORK (AP)—The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., the nation's biggest landlord with 34,170 tenants in East and West Coast housing projects, says it will rent to Negroes and other nonwhites.

The Metropolitan stamp came in a little-noticed joint statement by the company and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, reaffirming Metropolitan's "long-established policy of nondiscrimination."

Roy Wilkins NAACP executive secretary, called the statement a major breakthrough in the Negroes drive to get good housing.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—When her husband failed to show up Sunday for his daily visit at the hospital where she had been a patient since April, Mrs. James E. Halligan called police.

At her home they found the charred body of her husband, who was 78, sitting upright in a chair in front of the television set.

Police said he apparently had dozed off and dropped his cigarette.

Famous Echo Satellite Still Going Strong

The famous Echo 1 Satellite, fabricated of "Mylar" produced at the Circleville Du Pont plant, is still whirling about the globe with a shiny face.

The satellite, more than serving its original purpose, celebrated its third birthday today. It has logged nearly half a billion miles in orbit.

Space experts say the communications satellite is no longer useful. But this has not halted its continuous flight since launched three years ago.

The satellite has been an object of interest to people all over the world who have watched the heavens about dusk many an evening as the balloon moon made its orbits.

Scientists are still not sure just when Echo 1, the first man-made passive communications satellite, will come to its expected end by re-entering the atmosphere and burning up.

Siamese Twins Are Separated By Surgeons

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Bartley boys, David-Eugene and Daniel Clifford, born Siamese twins, entered their third day of life today—separately.

The twins, joined from mid-breast to midabdomen, were separated in a three-hour operation Sunday.

William Bartley 19, the father, and the twins' paternal grandfather, Mrs. Violet Mitchell, waited in the hall throughout surgery.

"Now it's up to the little guys," Mrs. Mitchell said after the operation. "They've got good names, David and Daniel."

The boys were born at 11:45 a.m. Saturday to Mrs. Rebecca Bartley, 16, who is "improving nicely" in Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital. Delivered by Caesarean section, they weighed a combined 14 pounds, 4 ounces.

The normal protective membranes for their intestinal tracts were missing and corrective surgery was performed shortly after birth.

New Accident Law Due in Effect Soon

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Warren C. Nelson, state highway safety director, cautioned motorists today that Ohio's new accident information law will go into effect Aug. 19.

Under the new law, a motorist is required to remain at the scene of his accident until he has furnished his name, address and vehicle registration number to either the operator of the other vehicle or to a police officer.

Formerly a driver was required to give such information only upon request.

The new law also specifies that if an accident involves an unattended vehicle, the driver is required to "securely attach the required information in writing to a conspicuous place, in or on the unattended vehicle."

Virginian To Head Nation's Lawyers

CHICAGO (AP)—Lewis F. Powell Jr., of Richmond, Va., was elected president-elect of the American Bar Association today at the opening of its 86th annual meeting.

He will become president in August 1964.

Powell, 55, who has been active in the ABA since 1940 when he served as chairman of the Junior Bar Conference, will be installed Friday. He will succeed Walter E. Craig of Phoenix, Ariz., who will become president. Sylvester C. Smith Jr., of Newark, N.J., has been president this year.

Space Weapons Emphasis Decried

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—A government scientist today challenged critics who want more emphasis on space weapons development, saying the present U.S. space program is laying a broad base for both scientific and military operations.

Homer E. Newell, director of space science for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said:

"Those who argue that we should dispense with the frills of science and space exploration and concentrate on the necessities of military development, forget that we can't really say what the military necessities in space will be and it would be foolhardy to pretend that we can."

In a speech prepared for an artificial satellite conference at Virginia Polytechnic Institute here, Newell said:

"We do not wish to develop a Maginot Line in space, only to have it flanked by forces of greater flexibility. We need to develop in a broad way our space capability so that we will have the ability to move in any direction required by future events to meet any threats along whatever lines might develop."

Newell's defense of the space program came at a time when many defense officials and some congressmen are taking a closer look at military needs in space.

Major military space efforts are aimed at development of reconnaissance satellites by the Air Force, communications satellites by the Army, and navigation satellites by the Navy.

The Air Force is training astronauts for NASA's two-man Project Gemini orbital and rendezvous flights. Later, Air Force astronauts will fly Gemini capsules modified for military missions and the Dyna-Soar manned space glider.

Advocates of a strong military program think the United States should be working on spacecraft to spy on enemy satellites and destroy them if they are carrying nuclear bombs. Some say this nation should develop orbiting nuclear bombs of its own.

Kennedy Tots Visit Mother

First Lady Recovering From Tragic Childbirth

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy today brought his two children to the hospital again, along with the family dog, Charley, to see Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

Caroline and little John Jr. were carrying chewing gum in their hands as they went inside for another cheer-up visit with their mother.

Mrs. Kennedy is recovering after the birth of a third child who lived less than two days.

The President brought them by helicopter.

John Jr., striding manfully looked around with some wonderment at the reporters and cameramen, and the airmen clustered at attention.

Sunday, the President brought them on separate visits, the first they had made to their mother since she was rushed to the hospital last Wednesday.

Mrs. Kennedy's press secretary, Pamela Turnure, said the First Lady had been cheered by their earlier visit, and did not seem to be a bit tired after they all went home Sunday night.

She continues to be making an excellent recovery from the Caesarean birth.

Sunday night, John Jr. watched photographers' flashing lights as he visited his mother's hospital suite.

Looking out of their car with an air of one who had made a great discovery, the 2½-year-old youngster declared: "I betcha they're taking our picture."

President Kennedy, like everyone else who heard it, burst into laughter. Caroline with a bouquet of garden flowers she picked herself and little John asking "Where's mommy?" all the way to her room, saw their mother for the first time since she was taken to the hospital Wednesday for the premature birth of a third child, Patrick Bouvier Kennedy. The infant lived less than two days.

Cincy Police Press Probe Into Slaying

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police waited today for pathologists' reports and kept questioning youngsters in their effort to solve the brutal and baffling murder of blonde Patricia Ann Rebholz.

The 15-year-old high school cheerleader's body was found early Friday on a back lot in suburban Greenhills. She had been strangled and her skull was fractured but her purse was found nearby and she had not been sexually molested.

Don Roney, assistant Hamilton County prosecutor, continued questioning youngsters who had been at a teen-agers' dance with Miss Rebholz shortly before the slaying.

"It was an unfortunate murder, not a madman's," said Roney, scoffing at suggestions the killing was the work of a maniac.

She left the dance Thursday night to walk to a boy friend's home. Her body was found across the street from her destination.

Police said they had no solid leads in the case.

One of the few clues to the killing may be some dark red spots found on a nearby house. The stains were being tested to determine if they are human blood.

The weapon used for the killing—an arm-thick section of a fence post—lay next to Miss Rebholz's body when a policeman found her.

Dillon Offers 2-Step Plan

House Panel Receives Administration Deal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon put before the House Ways and Means Committee today a proposal for an $11-billion tax cut in two steps beginning Jan. 1.

Individual tax rates would range from 14 per cent on the first $500 of income to a 70 per cent top. The present range is 20 on the first $2,000 to a top of 91.

Corporate income taxes would be reduced from the present 52 per cent to 48 per cent.

Dillon's proposals were presented at a closed meeting of the committee. Dillon declined to tell newsmen about them, but other sources filled in some details.

Since tax revisions already approved by the committee and expected to be approved would result in an increase of something over $1 billion a year in revenue, the net effect if the Treasury-prepared rate schedule were accepted would be a reduction of something between $9 billion and $10 billion when the new provisions are fully effective.

It was understood the proposal is to put two-thirds of the individual cut into effect Jan. 1 the remainder a year later.

This would mean a slightly smaller tax cut eventually than President Kennedy originally proposed, but probably a greater immediate reduction.

Two of Kennedy's major proposals face action this week on Capitol Hill. The House will vote on a $1.1-billion college construction bill, the Senate on a measure to create a National Service Corps.

The voting will come after the Senate opens hearings on the limited nuclear test ban treaty and the House starts writing a civil rights bill.

The busy week continues the accelerated pace set last week when the Senate passed a big military

Sacrificial Suicide Tried By Girl, 18

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A young Vietnamese girl smashed her wrist with a hammer inside Saigon's main Buddhist pagoda tonight in an attempted sacrificial suicide.

She was screaming incoherently and her blue silken dress was covered with blood when monks and nuns found her lying outside Xa Loi pagoda's main chapel, a Buddhist spokesman said.

Pagoda officials had no knowledge beforehand of her act, the spokesman said.

The girl was identified as Mai student. Monks said she had three letters in her clothing—one addressed to President Ngo Dinh Diem, one to Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu, wife of the president's brother, and one to Buddhist leaders.

The letter to Buddhist leaders said she was taking her life because of the South Vietnamese government's reluctance to settle the continuing dispute with Buddhists.

She was taking her life, she said, in the tradition of two monks who have burned themselves to death.

Space Weapons Emphasis Decried

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — A government scientist today challenged critics who want more emphasis on space weapons development, saying the present U.S. space program is laying a broad base for both scientific and military operations.

Homer E. Newell, director of space science for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said:

"Those who argue that we should dispense with the frills of science and space exploration and concentrate on the necessities of military development, forget that we can't really say what the military necessities in space will be and it would be foolhardy to pretend that we can."

In a speech prepared for an artificial satellite conference at Virginia Polytechnic Institute here, Newell said:

"We do not wish to develop a Maginot Line in space, only to have it flanked by forces of greater flexibility. We need to develop in a broad way our space capability so that we will have the ability to move in any direction required by future events to meet any threats along whatever lines might develop."

Newell's defense of the space program came at a time when many defense officials and some congressmen are taking a closer look at military needs in space.

Major military space efforts are aimed at development of reconnaissance satellites by the Air Force, communications satellites by the Army, and navigation satellites by the Navy.

The Air Force is training astronauts for NASA's two-man Project Gemini orbital and rendezvous flights. Later, Air Force astronauts will fly Gemini capsules modified for military missions and the Dyna-Soar manned space glider.

Advocates of a strong military program think the United States should be working on spacecraft to spy on enemy satellites and destroy them if they are carrying nuclear bombs. Some say this nation should develop orbiting nuclear bombs of its own.

Kennedy Tots Visit Mother

First Lady Recovering From Tragic Childbirth

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP) — President Kennedy today brought his two children to the hospital again, along with the family dog, Charley, to see Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

Caroline and little John Jr. were carrying chewing gum in their hands as they went inside for another cheer-up visit with their mother.

Mrs. Kennedy is recovering after the birth of a third child who lived less than two days.

The President brought them by helicopter.

John Jr., striding manfully looked around with some wonderment at the reporters and cameramen, and the airmen clustered at attention.

Sunday, the President brought them on separate visits, the first they had made to their mother since she was rushed to the hospital last Wednesday.

Mrs. Kennedy's press secretary, Pamela Turnure, said the First Lady had been cheered by their earlier visit, and did not seem to be a bit tired after they all went home Sunday night.

She continues to be making an excellent recovery from the Caesarean birth.

Sunday night, John Jr. watched photographers' flashing lights as he visited his mother's hospital suite.

Looking out of their car with an air of one who had made a great discovery, the 2½-year-old youngster declared: "I betcha they're taking our picture."

President Kennedy, like everyone else who heard it, burst into laughter.

Caroline with a bouquet of garden flowers she picked herself and little John asking "Where's mommy?" all the way to her room, saw their mother for the first time since she was taken to the hospital Wednesday for the premature birth of a third child, Patrick Bouvier Kennedy. The infant lived less than two days.

Cincy Police Press Probe Into Slaying

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police waited today for pathologists' reports and kept questioning youngsters in their effort to solve the brutal and baffling murder of blonde Patricia Ann Rebholz.

The 15-year-old high school cheerleader's body was found early Friday on a back lot in suburban Greenhills. She had been strangled and her skull was fractured but her purse was found nearby and she had not been sexually molested.

Don Roney, assistant Hamilton County prosecutor, continued questioning youngsters who had been at a teen-agers' dance with Miss Rebholz shortly before the slaying.

"It was an unfortunate murder, not a madman's," said Roney, scoffing at suggestions the killing was the work of a maniac.

She left the dance Thursday night to walk to a boy friend's home. Her body was found across the street from her destination.

Police said they had no solid leads in the case.

One of the few clues to the killing may be some dark red spots found on a nearby house. The stains were being tested to determine if they are human blood.

The weapon used for the killing—an arm-thick section of a fence post—lay next to Miss Rebholz's body when a policeman found her.

Dillon Offers 2-Step Plan

House Panel Receives Administration Deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon put before the House Ways and Means Committee today a proposal for an $11-billion tax cut in two steps beginning Jan. 1.

Individual tax rates would range from 14 per cent on the first $500 of income to a 70 per cent top. The present range is 20 on the first $2,000 to a top of 91.

Corporate income taxes would be reduced from the present 52 per cent to 48 per cent.

Dillon's proposals were presented at a closed meeting of the committee. Dillon declined to tell newsmen about them, but other sources filled in some details.

Since tax revisions already approved by the committee and expected to be approved would result in an increase of something over $1 billion a year in revenue, the net effect if the Treasury-prepared rate schedule were accepted would be a reduction of something between $9 billion and $10 billion when the new provisions are fully effective.

It was understood the proposal is to put two-thirds of the individual cut into effect Jan. 1 the remainder a year later.

This would mean a slightly smaller tax cut eventually than President Kennedy originally proposed, but probably a greater immediate reduction.

Two of Kennedy's major proposals face action this week on Capitol Hill. The House will vote on a $1.1-billion college construction bill, the Senate on a measure to create a National Service Corps.

The voting will come after the Senate opens hearings on the limited nuclear test ban treaty and the House starts writing a civil rights bill.

The busy week continues the accelerated pace set last week when the Senate passed a big military bill.

Sacrificial Suicide Tried By Girl, 18

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — A young Vietnamese girl smashed her wrist with a hammer inside Saigon's main Buddhist pagoda tonight in an attempted sacrificial suicide.

She was screaming incoherently and her blue silk dress was covered with blood when monks and nuns found her lying outside Xa Loi pagoda's main chapel, a Buddhist spokesman said.

Pagoda officials had no knowledge beforehand of her act, the spokesman said.

The girl was identified as Mai student. Monks said she had three letters in her clothing—one addressed to President Ngo Dinh Diem, one to Madame Ngo Dinh Nu, wife of the president's brother, and one to Buddhist leaders.

The letter to Buddhist leaders said she was taking her life because of the South Vietnamese government's reluctance to settle the continuing dispute with Buddhists.

She was taking her life, she said, in the tradition of two monks who have burned themselves to death.

Rhodes Rapped for Idle Pay Rule against Retiring Ohioans

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The administration of Gov. James A. Rhodes is "taking money out of the pockets of workers who must retire," George Burdon, international president of the United Rubber Workers Union, said today.

"The Ohio Unemployment Compensation Board under the Rhodes administration has stripped workers who must retire of their long-established right to collect state unemployment compensation until their pensions start," Burdon said in a statement.

"We are not going to stand still for this. The URW intends to take a test case of this question to the courts and up to the Supreme Court of Ohio, if necessary to get justice for those going out of industry under mandatory retirement rules."

Rusk Campaigns For Treaty OK

No Damage Is Seen To U.S. Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk urged the Senate today to ratify the limited nuclear test-ban treaty saying it should slow the arms race without damage to the security of the United States.

Rusk testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee as leadoff witness in the Kennedy administration's drive for Senate approval of the U.S.-British-Soviet pact to outlaw all nuclear explosions except those underground.

When Rusk took the witness chair, he was put under oath on the motion of Republican committee members.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, said all witnesses on the treaty would be sworn.

Rusk sought to counter possible arguments against the pact that some senators might raise.

He emphasized that the signing of the treaty by East Germany will in no way imply United States recognition of the Communist East German regime.

He said East German authorities will subscribe to the treaty in Moscow, and added: "The Soviet Union may notify us of that act. We are under no obligation to accept that notification and we have no intention of doing so, but the East German regime would have committed itself to abide by the provisions of the treaty."

Rusk said: "The United States and the Soviet Union already have enough nuclear power to inflict enormous destruction on each other. Still, the search for bigger more destructive weapons goes on."

"Yet greater armament has not demonstrably brought greater security. The treaty if observed, should slow this spiral, without damage to our relative strength."

Rusk and President Kennedy conferred by telephone for about 25 minutes Sunday shortly after the secretary arrived in Washington. They will meet at the White House late today as soon as the President returns from Cape Cod.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will be on hand for the meeting.

Kennedy also called Democratic congressional leaders to the White House for a later conference.

Rusk, who met Friday with Soviet Premier Khrushchev, told newsmen that the next round of U.S.-Soviet negotiations "will not move with great speed."

It was learned, however, that he came back with the impression that the Soviet leader wants to carry on talks with the United States to ease tensions in Europe.

Rusk made clear that he will explain to the Senate committee the assurances he gave West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer that the treaty in no way implies recognition of Communist East Germany by the United States or other Western allies.

Only a few hours after Rusk testified, Dr. Edward Teller tells the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee behind closed doors why he opposes the cessation of testing in the atmosphere, outer space and under the sea. Teller played a key role in development of the H-bomb.

Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman said he was confident Khrushchev will abide by the treaty "to avoid the risks of a nuclear war."

"I know every one feels that the Russians break all their agreements," Harriman said Sunday in a taped television interview.

"They have kept those in which their interests are involved and I think they are going to keep this one."

$68,258 Suit Filed against Local Firm

The Pennsylvania Railroad Co. has filed a suit totalling $68,258.45 against the C. F. Replogle Co. and representatives of the State of Ohio.

State officials named in the suit include Pearl L. Masheter, director of highways, Roger W. Tracy, auditor of state; and John D. Herbert, treasurer of state.

The suit came as the result of alleged happenings at the construction site of a highway project in Jefferson County contracted to the Replogle firm by the State of Ohio.

The railroad company's petition states that building of the highway required blasting, dirt removing excavating and grading along the side of a hill above the Panhandle Main Line tracks which paralleled the railroad for a distance of one mile.

A contract between the State and Replogle contained special provisions which included payment by the contractor for flagmen, switchtenders, watchmen and other protective services and devices made necessary because of the construction, the suit noted.

As its first cause of action, the railroad company is asking judgment of $55,096.84 for the payment of flag protection.

In the plaintiff's second cause of action, the railroad company claims that during the blasting of rocks, some fell on a rail siding and knocked over a 6600 volt line and four telegraph lines. By the negligence of the defendants, trains were delayed, railroad tracks, poles and equipment were damaged in the sum of $13,151.61.

According to the petition, the State of Ohio has not made final payment to Replogle for the project. The railroad company asks that such payment be withheld and seeks the court to order state officials to transfer and pay the money sought in its petition.

Rusk said: "The United States and the Soviet Union already have enough nuclear power to inflict enormous destruction on each other. Still, the search for bigger more destructive weapons goes on."

"Yet greater armament has not demonstrably brought greater security. The treaty if observed, should slow this spiral, without damage to our relative strength."

Rusk and President Kennedy conferred by telephone for about 25 minutes Sunday shortly after the secretary arrived in Washington. They will meet at the White House late today as soon as the President returns from Cape Cod. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will be on hand for the meeting.

Kennedy also called Democratic congressional leaders to the White House for a later conference.

Rusk, who met Friday with Soviet Premier Khrushchev, told newsmen that the next round of U.S.-Soviet negotiations "will not move with great speed." It was learned, however, that he came back with the impression that the Soviet leader wants to carry on talks with the United States to ease tensions in Europe.

Rusk made clear that he will explain to the Senate committee the assurances he gave West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer that the treaty in no way implies recognition of Communist East Germany by the United States or other Western allies.

Only a few hours after Rusk testified, Dr. Edward Teller tells the Senate Preparedness subcommittee behind closed doors why he opposes the cessation of testing in the atmosphere, outer space and under the sea. Teller played a key role in development of the H-bomb.

Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman said he was confident Khrushchev will abide by the treaty "to avoid the risks of a nuclear war."

"I know every one feels that the Russians break all their agreements," Harriman said Sunday in a taped television interview.

"They have kept those in which their interests are involved and I think they are going to keep this one."

$68,258 Suit Filed against Local Firm

The Pennsylvania Railroad Co. has filed a suit totalling $68,258.45 against the C. F. Replogle Co. and representatives of the State of Ohio.

State officials named in the suit include Pearl L. Masheter, director of highways, Roger W. Tracy, auditor of state; and John D. Herbert, treasurer of state.

The suit came as the result of alleged happenings at the construction site of a highway project in Jefferson County contracted to the Replogle firm by the State of Ohio.

The railroad company's petition states that building of the highway required blasting, dirt removing, excavating and grading along the side of a hill above the Panhandle Main Line tracks which paralleled the railroad for a distance of one mile.

A contract between the State and Replogle contained special provisions which included payment by the contractor for flagmen, switchtenders, watchmen and other protective services and devices made necessary because of the construction, the suit noted.

As its first cause of action, the railroad company is asking judgment of $55,096.84 for the payment of flag protection.

In the plaintiff's second cause of action, the railroad company claims that during the blasting of rocks, some fell on a rail siding and knocked over a 6600 volt line and four telegraph lines. By the negligence of the defendants, trains were delayed, railroad tracks, poles and equipment were damaged in the sum of $13,151.61.

According to the petition, the State of Ohio has not made final payment to Replogle for the project. The railroad company asks that such payment be withheld and seeks the court to order state officials to transfer and pay the money sought in its petition.

Closer Look Is Required At Nuclear Test Ban Treaty

Without belaboring the issue, I want to talk again about the nuclear test ban treaty. Maybe what I have to say is irrelevant because the House of Representatives has no control over the ratification of the treaty; under the constitution, that is solely the prerogative of the Senate. Yet, I think it important to discuss this issue because of its bearing on our national security.

Almost 24 years ago to the day, the world was surprised to know that Russia and Nazi Germany had signed a non-aggression pact. Russia had done one of the greatest diplomatic about faces in history.

Two Nations which had been the most unyielding of ideological enemies and had been on the verge of conflict suddenly became friends. While the negotiations were carried on in a "cordial and business-like" atmosphere, neither Nation expected to live up to the bargain, and as history indicates, neither did. Almost immediately thereafter, Hitler invaded Poland, and subsequently, the Russians and Germans were at one another's neck. So much for the parallels between 1939 and 1963.

The nuclear test ban treaty represents another about face by the Russians. They've reversed their earlier position and even offered on-site inspection teams to warn of surprise troop movements and surprise attacks. Why, then, have they reversed their aggressive attitude of this spring, which led Dean Rusk to warn of a possible new toughening of the Soviet attitude?

Since World War II, the Reds have violated 50 of the 53 agreements, they were party to. Historically, there is little reason today to believe that they act with any less cynical motives than they did in 1939. When the Communists undertake a major shift of this sort, they do so with cold calculation.

In order to better understand the ramifications of a test ban treaty, we must try to ascertain the reasons for this Russian about face.

I'm sure you've heard many, and foremost among them is usually the dispute with Red China. This may be a factor but since the argument has been going on for some time, it hardly follows that this is the major reason for the shift. Here are some other possible reasons:

(1) The U.S. political situation. The dissatisfaction of the American people over the failure to remove Russian forces from Cuba, combined with the racial issue and the continued high rate of unemployment, may have indicated to Khrushchev that the present accommodation-minded administration might be defeated in 1964. Since both of the leading Republican Presidential contenders favor a stronger U.S. foreign policy, it would be to Russia's interest that there be no change in administration. One way to cause the American people to forget about Cuba is to convince them that Russia is no longer dangerous—hence, a test ban treaty and a non-aggression pact.

(2) The political situation in Europe. There has been an amazing increase in Communist strength in Italy, as evidenced by the recent Italian elections, and, also, Communist influence is on the rise in France. These facts, coupled with the departure of Chancellor Adenauer, may suggest to the Reds that now is the time for negotiation in seeking its European objectives, which are, the recognition of East Germany and the division of the German nation, the Warsaw Pact Nations, and the dissolution of NATO.

(3) The political situation in Great Britain. The present government there is in dire straits. Its domestic problems and recent scandals have left it vulnerable. Only a "Peace in our Time" effort, as envisioned by Chamberlain, offers it a chance of reelection. Under such circumstances, Russia could expect Britain to press its allies for almost any concession to obtain something in which to hang its hat.

(4) Russia's economic situation. Russia hopes to provide her subjects with a better standard of living. Her agricultural program has failed and she could not sustain the drain on her economy from an all-out arms race. If she can achieve the same objective at less cost, it is to her advantage.

(5) The administration's new attitude toward coexistence, exemplified by the President's "strategy of peace" speech delivered at American University. This may have been the catalyst that jelled the mold. The eagerness of the administration to find a way out of the cold war could scarcely be ignored. A fluid world situation offers the Communists limitless possibilities for maneuverability.

These may or may not have been some of the reasons for the change in Russian policy, but the fact remains that the real danger lies in the political concessions to Communism that may be made by subsequent negotiations and "understandings" as a result of this "first step."

Underground Passage Is Used by Burglars

CLEVELAND (AP)—Burglars used a hidden underground passageway to reach a storeroom in a downtown wholesale house and carted away loot estimated at $25,000 Sunday.

The merchandise was taken from a specially built protective storeroom of the H & H Distributing Co. Included in the hundreds of items were high-price diamond rings, wristwatches, pearls and other jewelry, cameras, binoculars and transistor radios.

Loveland Supermarket Hit by $50,000 Fire

LOVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Damage from a fire at Brown's Supermarket in downtown Loveland has been estimated at around $50,000. Firemen brought the blaze under control soon after its discovery Sunday morning but it was hours before smoldering debris was cleared away from the rear of the building, where the fire apparently started.

Experts Take Look at Year 2,000 Predict What Mankind Can Expect

CINCINNATI (AP)—What will life be like in the year 2,000?

What will have happened in the automotive field, in science, education, transportation, communications aviation and health and medicine?

Fourteen business professionals, industrial, scientific, educational, and religious leaders, including Henry Ford II and space rocket scientist Dr. Werner Von Braun—have made predictions and here are some examples:

Those who sniffle and cough periodically will find that the common cold has been controlled; Disc-shaped personal air transporters will be flying around everywhere at up to 1,000 feet and they'll latch on to parking pads and hooks on top of and at the sides of buildings, in vacant lots and on roadways.

A high-speed, fully automatic system for automobile travel will be in operation and allow for automobile travel at 200 to 500 miles an hour for inter-city travel; There will be 100-mile-an-hour freight trains with cars which virtually will unload themselves; Man will be going around the surface of the earth at 1,000 miles an hour and around the sun at 18 miles a second and there will be manned space flights among the inner planets;

A car telephone will be common place and you also will be able to carry your personal radiotelephone in your pocket or handbag;

The average work week will have declined to 25 hours with vacations of a month or more the rule; It will be possible to keep food products for weeks without refrigeration.

Those forecasts, along with others, were placed recently in a box in the cornerstone of a new Union Central Life Insurance Co. building here. The box will be opened in the year 2,000 and, under the normal life span, millions will be around to see whether the forecasts came true.

As an addition to the box, President Kennedy and former Presidents Herbert Hoover, Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman were asked to submit what they felt to be the "most profound" thought they ever had heard or read.

For President Kennedy his office submitted a quotation from Edmund Burke—"The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing."

Former President Eisenhower's was the Biblical quotation, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

Former President Hoover listed the Bill of Rights.

Former President Truman listed four Biblical passages encompassing the Sermon on the Mount and the Ten Commandments.

In addition to predicting the high speed for inter-city travel, Ford foresaw that automobile interior dimensions would be about the same as now and he added that cars "still will use four wheels and an engine." He also predicted that electronics will permit a driver to be warned of impending danger so he can make adjustments.

Von Braun predicted the space travel and also said, "The accurate and world-wide prediction of weather will be a fact and the control of the Earth's climate and weather will be well underway."

In the field of food retailing, Jacob E. Davis, president of the Kroger Co., chain grocery firm, said freeze-drying and radiation sterilization would bring about preparation of foods which would be kept without refrigeration. He also foresaw pre-packaging of fresh fruits and vegetables so they will be ready to be eaten or cooked when they leave the field.

For the benefit of the tired husband who often has to help with the dishes, he added: "Even daily dishwashing may disappear with the advent of throwaway plastic dishes which might be molded to order before each meal."

In the field of machine tooling, Frederick E. Geier, Cincinnati Milling Machine Co., predicted it will be commonplace to have precision finer than millionths of an inch and there will be complex mechanisms for appliances that will last trouble-free for years.

Dr. Nelson Glueck, president of the Hebrew Union College, and a noted archeologist, predicted that by the year 2,000 events will have been such that future archeologists "will unravel an age of glory or a cataclysmic setback in the history of human development."

Bayard L. Kilgore Jr., Cincinnati & Suburban Bell Telephone Co. president who made the telephone predictions also forecast that there would be world-wide dialing of phones as well as picture-phones by which the callers will be able to see each other.

The forecast of the disc-shaped personal air transporters came from James LaPierre, General Electric Co. executive. He also predicted jet planes would be traveling 2,200 m.p.h. in transcontinental traffic and 9,000 m.p.h. in intercontinental traffic.

Fred Lazarus Jr., board chairman, Federated Department Stores, raised the questions as to whether year 2,000 would bring cosmetics to allow persons to "moonlight" gracefully and as to whether such items as shirts, socks, shorts and slacks will be of some synthetic material so they can be thrown away after a single wearing.

Dr. Johnson McGuire, University of Cincinnati Medical School laboratory, who predicted control of the common cold, also foresaw that measures to control heritable diseases by prevention of marriage or sterilization will have been taken by statute in certain countries and that some more advanced countries may limit the number of children in a family to control the population.

Dr. Walter C. Langsam, president, University of Cincinnati, foresaw that in the field of education undergraduates in colleges will be working in many of the areas now reserved for graduate students.

The Very Rev. Paul L. O'Connor, president of Xavier University predicted "the intellectual approach to religion will accelerate" and he declared the rancor and violence toward other systems already is beginning to disappear.

On the subject of Economy, Dr. Robert Wessel, University of Cincinnati economist, predicted the gross national product would be almost $3 trillion and that the average middle income family would have almost $12,000 to spend annually.

William Zimmer, Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. president, declaring that low cost fossil fuels will be exhausted in 75 to 100 years, predicted that half of the total electricity generated in the year 2,000 will come from nuclear plants.

Dr. McGuire accompanied his prediction with the observation ger so he can make adjustments.

Von Braun predicted the space travel and also said, "The accurate and world-wide prediction of weather will be a fact and the control of the Earth's climate and weather will be well underway."

Von Braun predicted the space travel and also said, "The accurate and world-wide prediction of weather will be a fact and the control of the Earth's climate and weather will be well underway."

In the field of food retailing, Jacob E. Davis, president of the Kroger Co., chain grocery firm, said freeze-drying and radiation sterilization would bring about preparation of foods which would be kept without refrigeration. He also foresaw pre-packaging of fresh fruits and vegetables so they will be ready to be eaten or cooked when they leave the field.

For the benefit of the tired husband who often has to help with the dishes, he added: "Even daily dishwashing may disappear with the advent of throwaway plastic dishes which might be molded to order before each meal."

In the field of machine tooling, Frederick E. Geier, Cincinnati Milling Machine Co., predicted it will be commonplace to have precision finer than millionths of an inch and there will be complex mechanisms for appliances that will last trouble-free for years.

Dr. Nelson Glueck, president of the Hebrew Union College, and a noted archeologist, predicted that by the year 2,000 events will have been such that future archeologists "will unravel an age of glory or a cataclysmic setback in the history of human development."

Bayard L. Kilgore Jr., Cincinnati & Suburban Bell Telephone Co. president who made the telephone predictions also forecast that there would be world-wide dialing of phones as well as picture-phones by which the callers will be able to see each other.

The forecast of the disc-shaped personal air transporters came from James LaPierre, General Electric Co. executive. He also predicted jet planes would be traveling 2,200 m.p.h. in transcontinental traffic and 9,000 m.p.h. in intercontinental traffic.

Fred Lazarus Jr., board chairman, Federated Department Stores, raised the questions as to whether year 2,000 would bring cosmetics to allow persons to "moonlight" gracefully and as to whether such items as shirts, socks, shorts and slacks will be of some synthetic material so they can be thrown away after a single wearing.

Dr. Johnson McGuire, University of Cincinnati Medical School laboratory, who predicted control of the common cold, also foresaw that measures to control heritable diseases by prevention of marriage or sterilization will have been taken by statute in certain countries and that some more advanced countries may limit the number of children in a family to control the population.

Dr. Walter C. Langsam, president, University of Cincinnati, foresaw that in the field of education undergraduates in colleges will be working in many of the areas now reserved for graduate students.

The Very Rev. Paul L. O'Connor, president of Xavier University predicted "the intellectual approach to religion will accelerate" and he declared the rancor and violence toward other systems already is beginning to disappear.

On the subject of Economy, Dr. Robert Wessel, University of Cincinnati economist, predicted the gross national product would be almost $3 trillion and that the average middle income family would have almost $12,000 to spend annually.

William Zimmer, Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. president, declaring that low cost fossil fuels will be exhausted in 75 to 100 years, predicted that half of the total electricity generated in the year 2,000 will come from nuclear plants.

Dr. McGuire accompanied his prediction with the observation

Closer Look Is Required At Nuclear Test Ban Treaty

Without belaboring the issue, I want to talk again about the nuclear test ban treaty. Maybe what I have to say is irrelevant because the House of Representatives has no control over the ratification of the treaty; under the constitution, that is solely the prerogative of the Senate. Yet, I think it important to discuss this issue because of its bearing on our national security.

Almost 24 years ago to the day, the world was surprised to know that Russia and Nazi Germany had signed a non-aggression pact. Russia had done one of the greatest diplomatic about faces in history.

Two Nations which had been the most unyielding of ideological enemies and had been on the verge of conflict suddenly became friends. While the negotiations were carried on in a "cordial and business-like" atmosphere, neither Nation expected to live up to the bargain, and as history indicates, neither did. Almost immediately thereafter, Hitler invaded Poland, and subsequently, the Russians and Germans were at one another's neck. So much for the parallels between 1939 and 1963.

The nuclear test ban treaty represents another about face by the Russians. They've reversed their earlier position and even offered on-site inspection teams to warn of surprise troop movements and surprise attacks. Why, then, have they reversed their aggressive attitude of this spring, which led Dean Rusk to warn of a possible new toughening of the Soviet attitude?

Since World War II, the Reds have violated 50 of the 53 agreements, they were party to. Historically, there is little reason to-day to believe that they act with any less cynical motives than they did in 1939. When the Communists undertake a major shift of this sort, they do so with cold calculation.

In order to better understand the ramifications of a test ban treaty, we must try to ascertain the reasons for this Russian about face.

I'm sure you've heard many, and foremost among them is usually the dispute with Red China. This may be a factor but since the argument has been going on for some time, it hardly follows that this is the major reason for the shift. Here are some other possible reasons:

(1) The U.S. political situation. The dissatisfaction of the American people over the failure to remove Russian forces from Cuba, combined with the racial issue and the continued high rate of unemployment, may have indicated to Khrushchev that the present accommodation-minded administration might be defeated in 1964. Since both of the leading Republican Presidential contenders favor a stronger U.S. foreign policy, it would be to Russia's interest that there be no change in administration. One way to cause the American people to forget about Cuba is to convince them that Russia is no longer dangerous—hence, a test ban treaty and a non-aggression pact.

(2) The political situation in Europe. There has been an amazing increase in Communist strength in Italy, as evidenced by the recent Italian elections, and, also, Communist influence is on the rise in France. These facts, coupled with the departure of Chancellor Adenauer, may suggest to the Reds that now is the time for negotiation, seeking the European objectives, which are, the recognition of East Germany and the division of the German nation, the recognition and acceptance of the Warsaw Pact Nations, and the dissolution of NATO.

(3) The political situation in Great Britain. The present government there is in dire straits. Its domestic problems and recent scandals have left it vulnerable. Only a "Peace in our Time" effort, as envisioned by Chamberlain, offers it a chance of reelection. Under such circumstances, Russia could expect Britain to press its allies for almost any concession to obtain something in which to hang its hat.

(4) Russia's economic situation. Russia hopes to provide her subjects with a better standard of living. Her agricultural program has failed and she could not sustain the drain on her economy from an all-out arms race. If she can achieve the same objective at less cost, it is to her advantage.

(5) The administration's new attitude toward coexistence, exemplified by the President's "strategy of peace" speech delivered at American University. This may have been the catalyst that jelled the mold. The eagerness of the administration to find a way out of the cold war could scarcely be ignored. A fluid world situation offers the Communists limitless possibilities for maneuverability.

These may or may not have been some of the reasons for the change in Russian policy, but the fact remains that the real danger lies in the political concessions to Communism that may be made by subsequent negotiations and "understandings" as a result of this "first step."

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Aug. 12 the 224th day of 1963. There are 141 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1676 Indian King Philip—chief of the Wampanoags—was shot to death at Mount Hope, R.I., by a renegade of his own tribe. His death ended the first great war of a confederacy of Indians against white settlers of that sector.

On this date In 1806, enraged citizens of Buenos Aires, Argentina, drove out a landing force of 1,200 British troops.

In 1916, the War Department ordered the National Guard to the Mexican border.

In 1933, Gen. Italo Balbo's aerial squadron returned to Italy after a flight to the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago.

In 1948, a Russian teacher, Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina, leaped from the Soviet consulate in New York City to avoid deportation to her homeland.

Ten years ago... Strikes in France spread to private industry when Premier Joseph Laniel refused to modify economic reforms ordered by his cabinet.

Five years ago... The submarine Skate became the second U.S. nuclear-powered submarine to sail under the North Pole.

One year ago... Russia's fourth astronaut, Lt. Col. Paoel Popovich, was sent into a nearly identical orbit with that of Maj. Andrian Nikolayev, whose launching occurred a day earlier.

Underground Passage Is Used by Burglars

CLEVELAND (AP)—Burglars used a hidden underground passageway to reach a storeroom in a downtown wholesale house and carted away loot estimated at $25,000 Sunday.

The merchandise was taken from a specially built protective storeroom of the H & H Distributing Co. Included in the hundreds of items were high-price diamond rings, wristwatches, pearls and other jewelry, cameras, binoculars and transistor radios.

Loveland Supermarket Hit by $50,000 Fire

LOVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Damage from a fire at Brown's Supermarket in downtown Loveland has been estimated at around $50,000. Firemen brought the blaze under control soon after its discovery Sunday morning but it was hours before smoldering debris was cleared away from the rear of the building, where the fire apparently started.

Experts Take Look at Year 2,000 Predict What Mankind Can Expect

CINCINNATI (AP)—What will life be like in the year 2,000?

What will have happened in the automotive field, in science, education, transportation, communications, aviation and health and medicine?

Fourteen business, professional, industrial, scientific, educational, and religious leaders, including Henry Ford II and space rocket scientist Dr. Werner Von Braun—have made predictions and here are some examples:

Those who sniffle and cough periodically will find that the common cold has been controlled;

Disc-shaped personal air transporters will be flying around everywhere at up to 1,000 feet and they'll latch on to parking pads and hooks on top of and at the sides of buildings, in vacant lots and on roadways;

A high-speed, fully automatic system for automobile travel will be in operation and allow for automobile travel at 200 to 500 miles an hour for inter-city travel;

There will be 100-mile-an-hour freight trains with cars which virtually will unload themselves;

Man will be going around the surface of the earth at 1,000 miles an hour and around the sun at 18 miles a second and there will be manned space flights among the inner planets;

A car telephone will be common place and you also will be able to carry your personal radiotelephone in your pocket or handbag;

The average work week will have declined to 25 hours with vacations of a month or more the rule;

It will be possible to keep food products for weeks without refrigeration.

Those forecasts, along with others, were placed recently in a box in the cornerstone of a new Union Central Life Insurance Co. building here. The box will be opened in the year 2,000 and, under the normal life span, millions will be around to see whether the forecasts came true.

As an addition to the box, President Kennedy and former Presidents Herbert Hoover, Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman were asked to submit what they felt to be the "most profound" thought they ever had heard or read.

For President Kennedy his office submitted a quotation from Edmund Burke—"The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing."

Former President Eisenhower's was the Biblical quotation, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

Former President Hoover listed the Bill of Rights.

Former President Truman listed four Biblical passages encompassing the Sermon on the Mount and the Ten Commandments.

In addition to predicting the high speed for inter-city travel, Ford foresaw that automobile interior dimensions would be about the same as now and he added that cars "still will use four wheels and an engine." He also predicted that electronics will permit a driver to be warned of impending danger so he can make adjustments.

Von Braun predicted the space travel and also said, "The accurate and world-wide prediction of weather will be a fact and the control of the Earth's climate and weather will be well underway."

In the field of food retailing, Jacob E. Davis, president of the Kroger Co., chain grocery firm, said freeze-drying and radiation sterilization would bring about preparation of foods which would be kept without refrigeration. He also foresaw pre-packaging of fresh fruits and vegetables so they will be ready to be eaten or cooked when they leave the field.

Soviet Economy Slips

Free world economists are training their sights on the condition of the Soviet economy in an effort to find a possible explanation for the sudden Moscow posture of a "thaw" in the cold war. They may have hit pay dirt in a military budget which is slowly — and not too slowly — strangling the civilian economy.

Unfavorable economic statistics are well hidden by the Kremlin. But Premier Khrushchev has been leading the criticism of his country's failures in agriculture and consumer goods industries in recent weeks, and revealing much about the economic pressures building up within the red empire in the process.

Some of the troubles harassing the premier are known to be getting worse, others are merely remaining constant. In none of the major areas of the Soviet economy, however, can any significant improvement be found. Foreign trade is on the plus side, with a 2 per cent gain the first six months of 1963. But this compares unfavorably with a 13 per cent gain in the similar period last year.

Other indicators are more unfavorable.

In the first half of this year Soviet production increased at a slower pace than in any year in the last 18. Agricultural output is growing no faster than the population, providing none of the improvements in nutritional standards promised by Khrushchev or increased output of cotton, wool, leather or other agricultural raw materials needed to boost output of clothing and footwear.

A sharp curtailment of new capital investment is now under way in the Soviet Union. Thousands of projects have been abandoned, with dwindling reserves earmarked exclusively for mines and factories which can be brought into production in the shortest period.

Only a sharp curtailment of military and space expenditures can release the resources needed to keep the Soviet economy from stalling and eventually backsliding. Realization of this in the Kremlin is responsible for the current cold war "thaw." How long the present posture is maintained will be determined by its effect on economic statistics.

The World Today

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — "If we must disagree," said Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, as if cheering up a debating society with a fairy tale, "let's disagree without being disagreeable."

This was his message Sunday to California Democrats already fussing among themselves a year before President Kennedy runs for re-election. Southern Democrats didn't get the message. Republicans won't, either.

The Southerners are so mad at Kennedy for his civil rights efforts that Mississippi gubernatorial candidates ran last week as anti-Kennedy men and Sunday Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia said: "I'm a Democrat but I have no intention of getting out and knocking myself out to support the Kennedy administration next year."

Russell not only has voted against the President on a good part of his domestic legislative proposals but will lead the expected Southern filibuster against Kennedy's civil rights bill.

Kennedy was caught in a political revolving door on this one.

He had to be pushed into offering the bill by direct action of Negroes North and South — and while it will cost him heavily among white Southerners it would have cost him among Northern Negroes if he hadn't.

But the Southerners will have trouble deciding which way to turn if New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is the Republicans' 1964 choice to oppose Kennedy.

Rockefeller whose state has a large Negro population, is plugging for civil rights legislation, too. He already is taking swipes at the one man who seems to have the edge on him at this moment, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Goldwater, idol of the conservative and far right Republicans, was recently admonished by Rockefeller, who can hardly be disturbed by the thought, that if he doesn't watch out he'll become a captive of the radical right.

The New Yorker accused the Arizonan of writing off the Negro vote before the 1964 campaign begins.

Goldwater, who has made some strong statements on running the government without explaining all of them, retorted that he wasn't writing off anybody's vote and accused Rockefeller of encouraging political cannibalism.

He said Rockefeller was trying to get Republicans to eat Republicans and complained the governor was using the "guilt by association" technique in identifying him with the "radical right."

And at this very moment some of the Republican leaders in Congress have been cautious not only about the civil rights bill but about the limited nuclear test-ban treaty Kennedy recently got from Khrushchev.

While they hemmed and hawed, a Negro leader—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People—tried to build a fire under them with a little warning.

"I am inclined to agree that the Republicans want the Negro to be free, but free somewhere over yonder."

"If they are worrying about getting Negro support, instead of carrying on a negative campaign on the civil rights bill they should adopt a positive policy and out-Kennedy the Kennedys."

While white Southerners would be confused if they had to choose between Kennedy and Rockefeller Northern Negroes will be confused if Kennedy should now go less than all-out for his civil rights bill and they have to choose in 1964 between him and a highly conservative Republican.

Yet, if Kennedy loses Southern white votes over civil rights, his nuclear test ban treaty will get him votes elsewhere which is something the Republicans in Congress can hardly be unaware of in deciding how to vote on the treaty.

Things ought to be getting more disagreeable right along now.

Babies are thoughtful little critters. Fewer are born during the cocktail hour than at any other time of the day or night.

The boy stuck his arm out of the window of his parents' car as the vehicle was traveling on Sprague Road in Columbia Township. The hand smashed into a parked auto.

A surgeon worked 90 minutes at Southwest Community Hospital in Berea to rejoin the nearly severed hand to the boy's arm. Billy was listed in fair condition. The doctor said it would be nearly six weeks before the success of the operation could be judged.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

There has been a steady, progressive and encouraging decline in the frequency and severity of tuberculosis in the United States during the past fifty years.

It was not too many years ago that tuberculosis carried with it the shame and stigma of a social disease. It was actually a source of embarrassment to a family to admit that one of its members had contracted this disease which was so closely associated with the poor and the underprivileged.

It took hard, determined effort over a period of years by federal and local health agencies to enlighten the American people with intensive educational programs.

As medical advances progressed, it became more and more important to bring out into the open all cases of tuberculosis for treatment and cure. Because of these mature health campaigns the disease of tuberculosis has been destigmatized.

The past twenty years have ushered in a glorious era of medicine. Unmatched in the history of mankind has been the eradication of infectious disease by the introduction of the sulfa drugs and the antibiotics. Tuberculosis is one of the diseases that has benefited by these new discoveries.

Today it can be said that about ninety-five percent of all patients whose tuberculosis is recognized early can recover from the disease. Sanitariums and hospitals, previously bursting at the seams with tuberculosis patients, are now being closed all over the United States.

The complete eradication of tuberculosis, however, is not yet a reality. Tuberculosis is still too prevalent among the underprivileged, the undernourished and the unenlightened. To these groups,

NEW YORK (AP)—Self-policing vs. government controls—an increasingly sore point in business-government relations—is brought sharply into focus today by an official study of what makes the stock market tick.

How the question is finally settled is of great importance to investors large and small—and by implication to other parts of the business world fearful of increased or proposed government regulation.

Stock exchanges and other handlers of securities think — as do leaders in many other industries—that since they are closest to their problems they are best equipped to regulate themselves and stop or prevent malpractice that balks the stock-buying public.

They point to recent tightening of their own rules and stepped-up vigilance.

A special panel study of security marketing practices for the Securities and Exchange Commission holds—as apparently do many government officials in other lines — that self-regulation is fine but that the SEC should be given more powers to see that the policing is done and along lines held by the government to be best for the investing public.

The theme of the study seems to be that "no business is eager for regulation" and a firm "government oversight" is needed to see that the policing is done properly.

Stock exchanges do considerable policing of their member brokerage houses and several times of late have cracked down on rule infractions.

The much larger over-the-counter market of stocks unlisted on any exchange is regulated by the National Association of Securities Dealers, set up by law to supervise activities of some 5,000 firms, involving 100,000 persons.

SEC Chairman William L. Cary says his agency will discuss the issue of still stricter self-policing vs. more government controls with the stock exchanges and the over-the-counter leaders before asking Congress for any new powers—beyond those already sought and now currently before the House after passage by the Senate.

What Congress might do next year, if the issue is raised then, depends on many things—including the course of stock prices, any fresh scandals the general trend of conservatism vs. liberalism.

Getting Too Far Off Base

By John Chamberlain

Although I happen to believe that the Communists are trying to horn in on the agitation for civil rights for Negroes, I agree with those who think the issue of Communist intrusion is something of a red herring. Rights are rights, and they should be discussed on their own merits in relation to the U. S. Constitution without worrying unduly because the Communists happen to be paying lip service to them. However, there is something that is really muddying the waters as Negro organizations gird themselves for the big August 28 march on Washington, D. C.

That "something" is the emergence of "kook," or illiterate, economics, in the demands which the Negroes propose to take to Washington with them. According to the Negro organizations' March Order manual, the projected business of the coming August 28 demonstration quite transcends the problem of constitutional rights. The Negroes understandably insist on such items as desegregation of public schools, the right to non-discriminatory public employment, and the right to unmolested use of the ballot. But when such demands as the ones for a "right" to massive federal public works programs, and for a minimum wage of $2 an hour appear on the list for an August 28 presentation, the Negroes themselves are entitled to look closely for hoodwinkers among them.

The truth is that there can be no such thing as a "right" to public works employment or a minimum wage. These things must come within the capacity of an economic system to supply them. They come under the heading of prudential legislation. In a poor, struggling economy, such as the one that pertains in the Cumberland and Ozark plateaus or the back country of Mississippi, the attempt to compel all employers to pay a minimum wage of $2 an hour would lead to many bankruptcies and the wholesale disappearance of jobs. The attempt to transfer to a federal public works project anyone who cannot earn $2 an hour at a profit to his employer must have its repercussions on the Gross National Product on the one hand, and the government's ability to finance itself through taxation on the other. Keynesian intricacies of a subtle and baffling nature obtrude.

Even in prosperous regions of the North and East the employment situation is not at all simple. There must be thousands of Negro wives, for example, who supplement the family income by doing domestic work. The going wage for such employment in my neck of the woods is around $10 a day. This, for a rather common six-hour day, comes to a little less than $1.70 an hour. The attempt to add thirty cents more to the hourly wage by legal compulsion, piled on top of such things as employer assumption of social security and the provision of daily lunch and transportation, might be just too much for many employers of domestics to assume. The Negro is entitled, therefore, to question even the practical wisdom of his leaders in mixing a high minimum wage demand with the August 28 demonstration in behalf of rights of a constitutional nature. Anything that will serve to decrease the total amount of work available to him could be prudentially bad.

The intrusion of public works and minimum wage demands into the August 28 picture is the real red herring. Such demands have nothing whatsoever to do with the legal rights of minorities as such if the Negro organizations insist on dragging strictly prudential economic matters into their current fight for "equal protection of the laws." They run the risk of confusing racial issues with class war agitation. This is something the Communists would very much like to see happen.

The Communists hope to enlist the Negroes as a fighting arm of a Marxist "proletariat." To hell, they say, with the hopes of a Negro middle class. But do the Negroes want this? How will it help their struggle for rights?

The trouble with the projected August 28 demonstration is that it has become subject to seizure by Millenialists who want Utopia tomorrow. I'd like a $2 minimum wage, too. Not for myself, but for my 18-year-old son who is working for a landscaping company this summer at $1.35 an hour. He's earning money for college. The only drawback to trying to force his employer to pay him $2 an hour is that he'd be fired. The Gross National Product would shrink, my college bills would go up, and whose rights would be improved?

Soviet Economy Slips

Free world economists are training their sights on the condition of the Soviet economy in an effort to find a possible explanation for the sudden Moscow posture of a "thaw" in the cold war. They may have hit pay dirt in a military budget which is slowly — and not too slowly — strangling the civilian economy.

Unfavorable economic statistics are well hidden by the Kremlin. But Premier Khrushchev has been leading the criticism of his country's failures in agriculture and consumer goods industries in recent weeks, and revealing much about the economic pressures building up within the red empire in the process.

Some of the troubles harassing the premier are known to be getting worse, others are merely remaining constant. In none of the major areas of the Soviet economy, however, can any significant improvement be found. Foreign trade is on the plus side, with a 2 per cent gain the first six months of 1963. But this compares unfavorably with a 13 per cent gain in the similar period last year.

Other indicators are more unfavorable.

In the first half of this year Soviet production increased at a slower pace than in any year in the last 18. Agricultural output is growing no faster than the population, providing none of the improvements in nutritional standards promised by Khrushchev or increased output of cotton, wool, leather or other agricultural raw materials needed to boost output of clothing and footwear.

A sharp curtailment of new capital investment is now under way in the Soviet Union. Thousands of projects have been abandoned, with dwindling reserves earmarked exclusively for mines and factories which can be brought into production in the shortest period.

Only a sharp curtailment of military and space expenditures can release the resources needed to keep the Soviet economy from stalling and eventually backsliding. Realization of this in the Kremlin is responsible for the current cold war "thaw." How long the present posture is maintained will be determined by its effect on economic statistics.

The World Today

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — "If we must disagree," said Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, as if cheering up a debating society with a fairy tale, "let's disagree without being disagreeable."

This was his message Sunday to California Democrats already fusing among themselves a year before President Kennedy runs for re-election. Southern Democrats didn't get the message. Republicans won't, either.

The Southerners are so mad at Kennedy for his civil rights efforts that Mississippi gubernatorial candidates ran last week as anti-Kennedy men and Sunday Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia said: "I'm a Democrat but I have no intention of getting out and knocking myself out to support the Kennedy administration next year."

Russell not only has voted against the President on a good part of his domestic legislative proposals but will lead the expected Southern filibuster against Kennedy's civil rights bill.

Kennedy was caught in a political revolving door on this one. He had to be pushed into offering the bill—by direct action of Negroes North and South — and while it will cost him heavily among white Southerners it would have cost him among Northern Negroes if he hadn't.

By James Marlow

But the Southerners will have trouble deciding which way to turn if New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is the Republicans' 1964 choice to oppose Kennedy. Rockefeller whose state has a large Negro population, is plunging for civil rights legislation, too. He already is taking swipes at the one man who seems to have the edge on him at this moment, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Goldwater, idol of the conservative and far right Republicans, was recently admonished by Rockefeller, who can hardly be disturbed by the thought, that if he doesn't watch out he'll become a captive of the radical right.

The New Yorker accused the Arizona of writing off the Negro vote before the 1964 campaign begins.

Goldwater, who has made some strong statements on running the government without explaining all of them, retorted that he wasn't writing off anybody's vote and accused Rockefeller of encouraging political cannibalism.

He said Rockefeller was trying to get Republicans to eat Republicans and complained the governor was using the "guilt by association" technique in identifying him with the "radical right."

And at this very moment some of the Republican leaders in Congress have been cautious not only

Boy Nearly Loses Hand In Odd Traffic Mishap

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP)—Five-year-old William Trowbridge Jr. of Columbia Station learned a lesson Sunday—but it nearly cost him his left hand.

The boy stuck his arm out of the window of his parents' car as the vehicle was traveling on Sprague Road in Columbia Township. The hand smashed into a parked auto.

A surgeon worked 90 minutes at Southwest Community Hospital in Berea to rejoin the nearly severed hand to the boy's arm. Billy was listed in fair condition. The doctor said it would be nearly six weeks before the success of the operation could be judged.

U.S. Mail Damaged By Railroad Car Fire

NEW PARIS, Ohio (AP) — A fire blamed on a hot brake caused heavy damage to mail in a Pennsylvania Railroad car Sunday night.

Firemen took 100 sacks of mail from the burning car and sent it to Richmond, Ind. About half the mail sacks were damaged. Postal authorities declined to estimate the loss before making an investigation.

Disturbances Noted in Stream of Commerce

NEW YORK (AP) — The main stream of American commerce flowed rather smoothly last week but there were disturbances in two important tributaries—Wall Street and world trade.

Wall Streeters received the third and final installment of the Securities and Exchange Commission report on market activity, finding some things they liked but others they considered controversial.

In world trade, the threat of back-and-forth tariff retaliation was raised at the same time that debate continued over the problem of assuring that there is enough money-credit to support growing commerce.

Domestic business sentiment was cheered, meanwhile, by the way major indicators keep pointing upward.

Also, new assessments suggest that two domestic problems may be easing. The threat of a nationwide rail strike Aug. 29 continues, but meetings by union leaders over contract proposals are slated for Tuesday and some drew hope some hold-off plan could emerge. Also, though steel production continued to fall, encouragement grew that this decline will be reversed soon to meet construction and fall auto demands.

The SEC report on the stock market didn't cause a big initial stir. Wall Streeters welcomed its comments that there was apparently no manipulation or illegal activity in the big market break of May 1962. Still, some frowned at the idea of tighter control of mutual funds and at the closer supervision requested for other areas.

International trade circles were set abuzz by the U.S. announcement that it would retaliate against European Common Market imports if the market persists in its refusal to lower levies against U.S. poultry. Some thought this hard line by the United States might shake loose concessions from the Common Market and actually improve trade prospects. Many others feared, however, that this would spark a retaliatory mood in Europe that could complicate tariff negotiations.

Domestic business, meanwhile, continues to reflect the glow cast by the automotive industry even as it shuts down for model change-over. Reports list sales of new cars in July at 603,000, against 511,700 a year previous and close to the all-time July record of 624,000 set in 1955.

Construction outlays didn't take the customary July drop, continued at June's high level for a seven-month total of $34.8 billion. That's 4 per cent higher than the same 1962 period.

Consumers boosted their installment debt in June again by almost exactly the same amount—$433 million—that they increased it in May, the Federal Reserve Board said.

Earnings and sales figures continued to disclose many records. Sears, Roebuck & Co. listed a 14.8 per cent rise in sales in the first half to a total of more than $250 million, a new high.

The steel industry continued as an equivocal element in business evaluations. Latest weekly production figures were the lowest for a nonholiday period since November at 1,782,000 tons, off 4 per cent. However, trade sources say an upturn should come soon as buyers deplete stocks they had built up against a strike that didn't come.

Disturbances Noted in Stream of Commerce

U.S. Mail Damaged By Railroad Car Fire

NEW PARIS, Ohio (AP) — A fire blamed on a hot brake caused heavy damage to mail in a Pennsylvania Railroad car Sunday night.

Firemen took 100 sacks of mail from the burning car and sent it to Richmond, Ind. About half the mail sacks were damaged. Postal authorities declined to estimate the loss before making an investigation.

NEW YORK (AP) — The main stream of American commerce flowed rather smoothly last week but there were disturbances in two important tributaries—Wall Street and world trade.

Wall Streeters received the third and final installment of the Securities and Exchange Commission report on market activity, finding some things they liked but others they considered controversial.

In world trade, the threat of back-and-forth tariff retaliation was raised at the same time that debate continued over the problem of assuring that there is enough money-credit to support growing commerce.

Domestic business sentiment was cheered, meanwhile, by the way major indicators keep pointing upward.

Also, new assessments suggest that two domestic problems may be easing. The threat of a nationwide rail strike Aug. 29 continues, but meetings by union leaders over contract proposals are slated for Tuesday and some drew hope some hold-off plan could emerge. Also, though steel production continued to fall, encouragement grew that this decline will be reversed soon to meet construction and fall auto demands.

The SEC report on the stock market didn't cause a big initial stir. Wall Streeters welcomed its comments that there was apparently no manipulation or illegal activity in the big market break of May 1962. Still, some frowned at the idea of tighter control of mutual funds and at the closer supervision requested for other areas.

International trade circles were set abuzz by the U.S. announcement that it would retaliate against European Common Market imports if the market persists in its refusal to lower levies against U.S. poultry. Some thought this hard line by the United States might shake loose concessions from the Common Market and actually improve trade prospects. Many others feared, however, that this would spark a retaliatory mood in Europe that could complicate tariff negotiations.

Domestic business, meanwhile, continues to reflect the glow cast by the automotive industry even as it shuts down for model change-over. Reports list sales of new cars in July at 603,000, against 511,700 a year previous and close to the all-time July record of 624,000 set in 1955.

Construction outlays didn't take the customary July drop, continued at June's high level for a seven-month total of $34.8 billion. That's 4 per cent higher than the same 1962 period.

Consumers boosted their installment debt in June again by almost exactly the same amount—$433 million—that they increased it in May, the Federal Reserve Board said.

Earnings and sales figures continued to disclose many records. Sears, Roebuck & Co. listed a 14.8 per cent rise in sales in the first half to a total of more than $250 million, a new high.

The steel industry continued an equivocal element in business evaluations. Latest weekly production figures were the lowest for a nonholiday period since November at 1,782,000 tons, off 4 per cent. However, trade sources say an upturn should come soon as buyers deplete stocks they had built up against a strike that didn't come.

Protect Open Shelves with Window Shades

By ELEANOR ROSS

How many times have you wished those open shelves in the kitchen were shelves with doors? While dust seems to find its way everywhere, even inside closed cabinets, the contents of open shelves are completely unprotected.

Have you ever thought about using regular window shades as a means of converting open shelves to closed, if not enclosed, ones? It's a compromise, of course, but it does afford some protection. Furthermore, the shades themselves do add a decorative note to the kitchen.

There are so many attractive, inexpensive window shades on the market today — both in solid colors and in prints. The best choice, of course, is the washable variety, either of an entirely washable material or of a fabric treated with a plastic coating.

Or you might consider shades made of wooden slats that roll up. Such shades are very attractive, yet functional. These can be quickly swabbed with a sudsy cloth or sponge as often as needed.

Shades have the added advantage of not taking up the space which cabinet doors require for opening. And you can't bump your head on a shade. It's so easy and so provoking to run into the sharp corner of a cabinet door left open as you prepare a meal.

While it is no great chore to take down and launder window shade it is even easier to give it an occasional sudsy wipe-off right where it hangs. So look for the type of cabinet "curtain" that seems right for your kitchen and that requires the least effort to keep it looking like new.

Now let's move out of the kitchen and into other areas of the house and note how the hassock has become an indispensable item, especially if the household includes teenagers.

The hassock has been rediscovered, you might say, by the teenage crowd. It takes a sprawling, lounging youngster, — who would rather sit anywhere than on a conventional piece of furniture — to get the most out of a hassock.

One store buyer says that no youngster in his town would be caught without his very own triple hassock set. This consists of a six-way wedge cushion on which to rest his weary head; a regular, square-shaped hassock for his tired feet and a TV hassock for his weary body!

Junior Miss wants her set, too, only she is more likely to fall for the fake fur zip-on covers which, happily, are just as washable as the plastic upholstery.

Oen and all can take a world of hard usage and still retain their good looks. A frequent going-over with a sudsy sponge will erase footprints, spilled pop and the traces of that mustard-smeared sandwich.

And since hassocks fit into any odd corner when not in use, there is always room for another one around the house.

Dear Abby: by Abigail Van Buren

Itching for Scratch!

DEAR ABBY: My brother and I caught poison ivy again this year for the third year in a row, and our father is making us pay for the shots with our own money. Last year when we caught it, he said that now that we know where the poison ivy was, if we ever caught it again we'd have to pay the expenses. Abby, isn't it bad enough to be covered with poison ivy without having to spend our berry-picking money to get well. DAVID AND STEVIE (11 and 13)

DEAR BOYS: Your father is trying to teach you that money doesn't grow on trees. You've got to scratch for it.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my 25-year-old daughter. She is still single and doesn't seem the least bit concerned about it. When the subject of marriage comes up she laughs it off. As far as I can see, she has no intention of getting married, and I don't care for the idea of having an old maid for a daughter. What can I do?

DEAR ABBY: Be thankful that your daughter is content. Or would you rather she be married and miserable? Or worse yet, die.

DEAR ABBY: My brother and I caught poison ivy again this year for the third year in a row, and our father is making us pay for the shots with our own money. Last year when we caught it, he said that now that we know where the poison ivy was, if we ever caught it again we'd have to pay the expenses. Abby, isn't it bad enough to be covered with poison ivy without having to spend our berry-picking money to get well.

DAVID AND STEVIE (11 and 13)

DEAR BOYS: Your father is trying to teach you that money doesn't grow on trees. You've got to scratch for it.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my 25-year-old daughter. She is still single and doesn't seem the least bit concerned about it. When the subject of marriage comes up she laughs it off. As far as I can see, she has no intention of getting married, and I don't care for the idea of having an old maid for a daughter. What can I do?

DEAR WORRIED: Be thankful that your daughter is content. Or would you rather she be married and miserable? Or worse yet, di-

U.S. Collects Wightman Cup 29th Time

CLEVELAND (AP)—The United States owns the Wightman Cup for the 29th time today, but its 6-1 triumph over Great Britain's finest women tennis players was not as decisive as the score indicates.

Led by Darlene Hard, who was seeking revenge, and bouncy Billie Jean Moffitt, the American girls turned a 2-1 advantage into a rout by sweeping all four matches Sunday.

Nancy Richey, a tough competitor from Dallas, started the U.S. to its runaway by outlasting 4-foot-11 Deidre Catt in a key match, 14-12, 6-3. Six times in the opening set — second longest in Wightman Cup history — Miss Catt needed a game point for a set victory, but Nancy would not quit.

Then Miss Hard, who was up set Saturday by British southpaw star Ann Haydon Jones for the visitors only victory, turned on a brilliant display of tennis to crush powerful Christine Truman, 6-3, 6-0. That clinched the silver cup for the U.S.

In one of the finest played matches, Miss Moffitt turned back Mrs. Jones, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

Miss Mickey, a Southern Methodist University home economics major, teamed with Donna Floyd Fales of New York in the final doubles match. They completed the U.S. sweep with a 6-4, 6-8, 6-2 victory over Miss Catt and Elizabeth Starkie.

Although the New York Giants won 26 straight games to set a record in 1916, the team finished fourth. The streak has never been beaten.

Kochheiser Hardware Team Gains BR Minor Championship

Kochheiser Hardware walloped the Savings Bank, 18-1, Saturday to cop the Babe Ruth minor division championship.

Undefeated throughout the regular season, the Savings nine was upset in the first game of the best-of-three series, came back with a win in the second tilt and then was handed the defeat Saturday.

S. Richardson, a relatively inexperienced pitcher for the Hardware team, hurled a two-hit game for the winners.

He allowed a single run in the first inning, then proceeded to hurl shutout ball for six frames.

THE LOSERS used three pitchers, starting with Palmer, who was charged with the loss. He was relieved by Massey who was in turn pulled in favor of Cook.

P. Burton, blasted three doubles for the winners and hit safely in four official trips to the plate to pace the Hardware nine. John Stevenson was three for five.

Collecting hits for the losers were McAllister and Sark.

After going scoreless the first two frames, the winners exploded for six runs in the third inning, eight in the bottom of the fourth and four in the fifth.

During league play, new champs had a record of nine wins and six losses. The Savings Bank accumulated 15 consecutive wins.

Battered Fullmer To Ponder Retiring

NEW YORK (AP) — Gene Fullmer, mauled, bruised and badly beaten in his effort to regain the world middleweight boxing title, returned to the United States to mull over the possibility of retirement.

"I have no plans for retiring and no plans for going on," Fullmer said Sunday night en route to his home in West Jordan, Utah. "I'm going home to talk it over with my family."

The 32-year-old fighting Mormon was cut and battered and drenched with his own blood Saturday before suffering a seventh-round TKO at the hands of champion Dick Tiger in Ibadan, Nigeria.

St. Louis University has played in every final of the NCAA soccer championships since the tournament was inaugurated in 1959. The Billikens have won the title three times.

U.S. Swim Team Going to Japan

CHICAGO (AP)—A U.S. national swimming and diving contingent, having captured nearly all the titles in the national AAU championships which ended Sunday, heads for a tour of Japan this week.

The squad of 16 swimmers and diver Larry Andreasen will arrive in Japan, scene of the 1964 Olympics Tuesday to compete against a Japanese team for two weeks.

With the exception of Tom Stock and Ted Stickle, both of the powerful Indianapolis Athletic Club, every swimmer winning an AAU title in Oak Park over the weekend is represented in the touring team coached by Ralph Casey of Southern Illinois University and managed by Ken Treadway of Bartlesville, Okla.

Stock, winner of the 200-meter backstroke, and Stickle, the 400-meter individual medley champion, asked to be left off the team in order to devote the time to their studies at Indiana University.

Andreasen, a 17-year-old diver from Anaheim, Calif., and winner of the three-meter springboard competition, was chosen over Lt. Tom Gompf, an Air Force jet fighter pilot who captured the 10-meter platform event and finished a narrow 10 points ahead of Andreasen.

The team includes such record breakers as Don Schollander of Santa Clara, Calif., whose 4:17.7 in the 400-meter freestyle established an American citizen's record; Carl Robie of the Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia who bettered his own American and meet record in the 200-meter butterfly with 2:08.8; and Steve Clark of the Santa Clara Swim Club, who surpassed his own American and meet record in the 100-meter freestyle with 54.2.

Circleville Lumber Tops ML Stalwarts

The Circleville Lumber baseball team, undefeated in regular play during the season, swept to a 15-5 win Saturday over an exhibition team of Mosquito League stalwarts.

Rickey Blankenship pitched the entire game for the winners, shutting out his opponents for the first four innings. He was touched for a pair of runs in the fifth and three in the sixth.

During his six inning mound stint, he whiffed eight, issued eight free passes to first base, hit one batter and was touched for seven hits.

Randy Sprout started for the losers, pitching the first two innings. He allowed seven runs on eight hits, one walk and hit one batter. He fanned one.

TERRY LEASURE came on in relief, working the third and fourth innings. He gave up six runs on six hits and two walks.

Finishing the game, Dick Sark allowed three runs on four hits, whiffing two.

The big inning for Circleville Lumber was the second when Jim Ramey, Howard Cline, Dave Truex Blankenship, Randy Young, and Jim Whaley all hit safely.

The exhibition unit started a rally in the sixth on a walk, a two base hit by Gregg Shires, a single by John Payne and by Bob Peters.

Truex clobbered a home run for the winners while Whaley tripped. Tagging doubles were Ramey, Reeser and Cline, with two.

Shires and Payne doubled for the losers.

Ramey was five for four at the plate, and Cline was four for five to pace all hitters.

The Lumbermen swept through their 14-game schedule in the Mosquito League, defeating all opponents, to cop an undisputed championship.

Arledge Reins Winner

Great Berry, owned by Dick and Joe Asher of New Holland and reined by Jim Arledge, Circleville, won the seventh race at Scioto Downs Saturday in 2:03.3, returning $30.40, $7.80 and $4.60.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Now that Bob Humphreys is back the Atlanta Crackers have stopped their skid and are flying high again in the International League.

The Crackers beat Jacksonville twice Sunday, 3-1 and 3-2, to cut Indianapolis' Southern Division lead to 4½ games. Indianapolis lost to Toronto 6-5. Arkansas beat Richmond 4-3. Buffalo defeated Rochester 9-7 and Syracuse edged Columbus 6-5.

Humphreys was the league's leading relief pitcher when he was called up two months ago by the St. Louis Cardinals. The Crackers have won five straight since his return. He made a relief appearance in the second game, holding the Suns hitless in 1 2-3 innings to preserve Riverboat Smith's third victory against nine losses.

3 Top Harness Drivers Slated At State Fair

In 25 racing seasons since formation of the Ohio-based United States Trotting Association, only seven harness race drivers have been able to post more than 1,500 wins.

Three, including Bill Houghton, the first USTA driver to parade 2,000 winners, are expected to clash during the 110th Ohio State Fair harness racing meet, August 26-29.

Houghton, who drove his 2,000 winner earlier this year, has the classy Meadow Andy, a 2:04 winner both this year and last, among the eligibles for the rich Director of Agriculture Pace, slated for Wednesday, August 28.

Fourth on the all-time USTA driving list, with 1,516 wins at the start of the season, is Wayne (Curly) Smart, of Delaware, Ohio. Smart handles Victoria Lind, perhaps the leading filly hopeful for De-Ag Pace laurels, for owner James Brickel, Jamestown.

Stanley Dancer, now fifth on the all-time list, is also a probability for the $25,000 Di-Ag Pace. His eligible, William Time, owned by I. W. Berkemeyer, New Milford, New Jersey, already has scored 13 wins this year, with a 2:02 1-5 the fastest. Dancer and Berkemeyer may also take dead aim on the famed Governor's Cup trot, August 29, with Rodilo, at $62,000, the top-priced yearling of the 1962 sales rings.

Eligibility for out-of-state-owned trotters and pacers to the stakes, worth an estimated $100,000, is acquired through breeding to Ohio-owned stallions, or purchase of Ohio-bred eligibles.

Ten National Leaguers have hit 300 or more home runs during their baseball careers but only one of them, Mel Ott, is in the Hall of Fame. Five are still active.

Ex-OSU Star Cops Western Golf Amateur

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (AP)—On 20-year-old Tom Weiskopf's first try in big time competitive golf he has come away a big winner.

The former Ohio State star romped off with the 61st Western Amateur Open Championship with a cool 5 and 4 victory over national amateur champion Labron Harris Jr. Sunday at Point O'Woods course.

Shooting one-under-par for the 14 holes of the final match, Weiskopf kept the pressure on his 21 year-old Stillwater, Okla. foe from the start.

Weiskopf, who added 1961 and 1962 Ohio public links championships to collegiate experience, had his clubs—and some luck—working all the way. He sank a 10-foot putt on the 10th hole and on the 13th his wedge shot from a sand pit hit the pin and stopped six feet from the cut for his putt.

The 1963 Western Amateur, which started out with a field of 194 contenders, wound up as a young man's show in the finals and semifinals.

The only one of the four survivors old enough to vote was Harris.

Weiskopf, leading most of the way, defeated Johnny Stevens, 20, of Wichita, Kan., 2 and 1. Harris won from Bob Bourne, 19, of Oberlin, Ohio, 1 up.

Bourne almost pulled out his match with Harris, missing a five-foot putt on the 18th for a half after he had won the 16th and 17th in cutting a three-down deficit.

Latman held the Athletics hitless for 5 2-3 innings. Then one of the men least likely to hit a home run—Jose Tartabull — poked one into the right field stands, 340 feet away.

That must have upset Latman, because Tartabull had gone to the plate 437 times in the major leagues without hitting a homer. The next two batters, Wayne Causey and Jerry Lumpe, hit singles. Latman retired Norm Siebern on a fly to center.

That was it for Kansas City. In eight of the other innings, Latman didn't permit a hit. He walked only three and struck out seven.

The last time Latman pitched—if that's the correct term—was against Baltimore Aug. 6. He faced five batters, gave up four singles and a three-run homer in the first inning and took a shower. That's horrid.

Jim Nance, 230-pound Indiana, Pa., athlete at Syracuse University, is the NCAA and Eastern heavyweight wrestling champion.

Catcher Ellie Howard of the Yankees paced American League catchers in 1962. He made only four errors in 129 games.

Browns To Study Their Fumbleitis

CLEVELAND (AP)—When he's good, he's great. But when he's bad, he's horrid. That's the story of broad-shouldered Barry Latman, Cleveland's on-again - off again pitcher.

He was great Sunday, pitching a threehitter against Kansas City as the Indians got him two runs in the first inning and he made them stand up for a 2-1 triumph.

Latman held the Athletics hitless for 5 2-3 innings. Then one of the men least likely to hit a home run—Jose Tartabull — poked one into the right field stands, 340 feet away.

That must have upset Latman, because Tartabull had gone to the plate 437 times in the major leagues without hitting a homer. The next two batters, Wayne Causey and Jerry Lumpe, hit singles. Latman retired Norm Siebern on a fly to center.

That was it for Kansas City. In eight of the other innings, Latman didn't permit a hit. He walked only three and struck out seven.

The last time Latman pitched—if that's the correct term—was against Baltimore Aug. 6. He faced five batters, gave up four singles and a three-run homer in the first inning and took a shower. That's horrid.

Jim Nance, 230-pound Indiana, Pa., athlete at Syracuse University, is the NCAA and Eastern heavyweight wrestling champion.

Catcher Ellie Howard of the Yankees paced American League catchers in 1962. He made only four errors in 129 games.

3 Top Harness Drivers Slated At State Fair

In 25 racing seasons since formation of the Ohio-based United States Trotting Association, only seven harness race drivers have been able to post more than 1,500 wins. Three, including Bill Haughton, the first USTA driver to parade 2,000 winners, are expected to clash during the 110th Ohio State Fair harness racing meet, August 26-29.

Haughton, who drove his 2,000 winner earlier this year, has the classy Meadow Andy, a 2:04 winner both this year and last, among the eligibles for the rich Director of Agriculture Pace, slated for Wednesday, August 28.

Fourth on the all-time USTA driving list, with 1,516 wins at the start of the season, is Wayne (Curly) Smart, of Delaware, Ohio. Smart handles Victoria Lind, perhaps the leading filly hopeful for De-Ag Pace laurels, for owner James Brickel, Jamestown.

Stanley Dancer, now fifth on the all-time list, is also a probability for the $25,000 Di-Ag Pace. His eligible, William Time, owned by I. W. Berkemeyer, New Milford, New Jersey, already has scored 13 wins this year, with a 2:02 1-5 the fastest. Dancer and Berkemeyer may also take dead aim on the famed Governor's Cup trot, August 29, with Rodilo, at $62,000, the top-priced yearling of the 1962 sales rings.

Eligibility for out-of-state-owned trotters and pacers to the stakes, worth an estimated $100,000, is acquired through breeding to Ohio-owned stallions, or purchase of Ohio-bred eligibles.

Ten National Leaguers have hit 300 or more homers during their baseball careers but only one of them, Mel Ott, is in the Hall of Fame. Five are still active.

Ex-OSU Star Cops Western Golf Amateur

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (AP)—On 20-year-old Tom Weiskopf's first try in big time competitive golf he has come away a big winner.

The former Ohio State star romped off with the 61st Western Amateur Open Championship with a cool 5 and 4 victory over national amateur champion Labron Harris Jr. Sunday at Point O'Woods course.

Shooting one-under-par for the 14 holes of the final match, Weiskopf kept the pressure on his 21-year-old Stillwater, Okla. foe from the start.

Weiskopf, who added 1961 and 1962 Ohio public links championships to collegiate experience, had his clubs—and some luck—working all the way. He sank a 10-foot putt on the 10th hole and on the 13th his wedge shot from a sand pit hit the pin and stopped six feet from the cut for his putt.

The 1963 Western Amateur, which started out with a field of 194 contenders, wound up as a young man's show in the finals and semifinals.

The only one of the four survivors old enough to vote was Harris.

Weiskopf, leading most of the way, defeated Johnny Stevens, 20, of Wichita, Kan., 2 and 1. Harris won from Bob Bourne, 19, of Oberlin, Ohio, 1 up.

Bourne almost pulled out his match with Harris, missing a five-foot putt on the 18th for a half after he had won the 16th and 17th in cutting a three-down deficit.

That must have upset Latman, because Tartabul had gone to the plate 437 times in the major leagues without hitting a homer. The next two batters, Wayne Causey and Jerry Lumpe, hit singles. Latman retired Norm Siebern on a fly to center.

Latman Hurls Three-Hitter Against A's

CLEVELAND (AP)—When he's good, he's great. But when he's bad, he's horrid. That's the story of broad-shouldered Barry Latman, Cleveland's on-again - off again pitcher.

He was great Sunday, pitching a threehitter against Kansas City as the Indians got him two runs in the first inning and he made them stand up for a 2-1 triumph.

Latman held the Athletics hitless for 5 2-3 innings. Then one of the men least likely to hit a home run—Jose Tartabul — poked one into the right field stands, 340 feet away.

That must have upset Latman, because Tartabul had gone to the plate 437 times in the major leagues without hitting a homer. The next two batters, Wayne Causey and Jerry Lumpe, hit singles. Latman retired Norm Siebern on a fly to center.

That was it for Kansas City. In eight of the other innings, Latman didn't permit a hit. He walked only three and struck out seven.

The last time Latman pitched—if that's the correct term—was against Baltimore Aug. 6. He faced five batters, gave up four singles and a three-run homer in the first inning and took a shower. That's horrid.

Jim Nance, 220-pound Indiana, Pa., athlete at Syracuse University, is the NCAA and Eastern heavyweight wrestling champion.

Germans Risk Lives for Freedoms 'That Americans Take for Granted'

EDITORS NOTE—The author of this article is one of the hundreds of East Germans who have escaped to the West despite the Berlin wall, barbed wire, mine fields and trigger-happy guards. On the eve of the second anniversary of the wall, she recalls her life behind it and the reasons people risk their lives to escape. She uses a pseudonym to protect her family and friends still in East Germany.

By KATERINA THOMAS
FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—I lived for 16 months behind the Berlin wall. Except for the year my husband spent in jail during the height of Stalinist frenzy back in 1952-53, they were my worst months under communism. Eight months ago my husband and I managed to escape. It meant leaving a large family home and garden where we had spent 24 happy married years. It meant leaving behind almost everything we owned, including the worthless sentimental things a woman treasures. It meant leaving friends with whom we shared hard and unforgettable years. It was a sacrifice and a great risk. Other people might still escape by the route we took so I

Zanesville Labor Fuss Peace Is Not in Sight

CHICAGO (AP) — Chances appear dim for settlement in the near future of a labor dispute that has idled the Gould National Batteries Co. plant in Zanesville, Ohio, and 14 other Gould plants in six states. Negotiations between company officials and representatives of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers broke off here Sunday and no new sessions were scheduled. Some 4,500 union employees at Gould plants struck last May 22 in a contract dispute.

Views on TV - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The favorite indoor and poolside sport of this show business town now, as always in late summer, is predicting next season's hit television shows.

The community is full of self-proclaimed experts on the subject, and the most fascinating aspect of the game is that almost anybody can be right.

After two weeks of visiting television sets, talking with producers, directors, stars, executives and, of course, press agents, I have been assured that every new series encountered undoubtedly will be a hit.

For what preseason talk is worth, there's a lot about the incoming NBC Bill Dana comedy series. By coincidence it will occupy the Sunday night spot vacated by "Ensign O'Toole," which received the same kind of talk last year at this time but survived for only one season.

CBS "My Favorite Martian" also is a Sunday evening entry and the subject for particularly enthusiastic predictions. This is unusual in that it will attempt to marry fantasy and satire in a comedy. It concerns the adventures of a visitor from another planet who arrives equipped with built-in antenna and assorted powers including ability to become invisible at will.

The theory is that the kiddies will enjoy the magic and the adults appreciate the satire and everybody will be happy.

ABC and many of the crystal-ball gazers are expecting interesting response to "Burke's Law," an action series done in a debonair and sophisticated manner. It stars a millionaire man-about-town who is also a police detective.

A number of shows have been beset by production troubles. ABC's "Travels of Jaimie McPheeters" lost its producer by death; CBS removed the producer and took most of the writers off "The Judy Garland Show" after five shows had been taped; NBC's "Richard Boone Show," an anthology series, has been set back by the illness of playwright Clifford Odets, story editor of the series.

But until premier dates in September and October the promise of each of the 32 new shows is bright.

Berger Treats Two Swimmers

Two 16-year-olds injured yesterday while swimming at Gold Cliff Park headed a list of persons treated at Berger Hospital's emergency room during the weekend. All receiving personal injury were released following treatment.

Pam Miller, 16, Kingston, suffered a laceration to her head in the pool at Gold Cliff. Roger Ward, 16, Route 3, was treated for a dislocated shoulder received while swimming at the park.

Karen Sue Noble, one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Noble, Route 4, cut the palm of her right hand in a fall while holding a drinking glass.

Daniel Watson, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sigle Watson, Ashville, fell from a moving car and was treated for abrasions of the left shoulder and ribs.

Louise Beard, 56, of 343 E. Corwin St., spilled hot cooking oil on her left arm and ankle and was treated for burns.

Billy Nicholas, 14, Route 3, cut a finger on an air pump while at home and was treated for a minor laceration.

Jerry McBride, 16, Columbus, caught a toe in a screen door while visiting friends near Laurelvile. He was treated for a laceration.

Allan Dale Rush, son of Mrs. Rosalie Rush, Route 1, fell and struck his chin on a fuel oil tank. He was treated for a laceration of the lip.

Havel River in freezing weather. They crawl through tunnels that might cave at any moment or run across mine fields that could blow them up at any step. Some are killed by Communist border guards.

What drives people to gamble their lives in order to leave their homes?

It might sound strange to American ears, but I'm sure the chief reason is the longing for freedom to think and do what one wants. The simple freedoms that Americans take for granted are worth a life to many East Germans.

It is simply that after a while you can't breathe any more. You are too restricted. Your ideas count for nothing if they do not agree with those of the Communists. Your individual wishes are ignored. A person's individuality and freedom count for nothing. This is what people learn to hate. This is why they leave.

What did I personally dislike most? I think it was the way children were treated.

Probably more parents leave East Germany for the sake of their children than for any other reason.

I clearly remember Aug. 13, 1961. For years my husband and I felt we should stay in East Germany. One has a responsibility to one's home and people, and problems are not solved by running away.

But we had finally decided to flee and our two children had already gone to the West. We planned to follow after a short vacation in a health resort. There we heard the news of Aug. 13.

Our hearts sank. Our escape route was blocked. It took nearly two years to find a way out. The one good the wall did was to wake people to the horror of communism.

Nine demonstrators were freed Sunday on bonds totaling $1,175. They had been arrested Saturday as they picketed at Rikes department store. All 24 arrests have been made at the store.

Pennsylvanian Held In Shooting of Ohioan

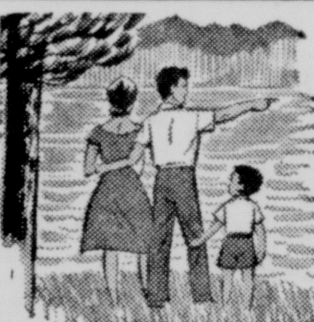

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP) — William Lewis 34, of Beaver Falls has been charged in the fatal shooting of Joseph Graham of Warren and Niles, Ohio. Police quoted Lewis as saying he shot Graham Saturday because Graham entered his home and refused to leave. Officers said they believed the shooting was the aftermath of a drinking spree.

Lausche Still Skeptical About Test Ban Pact

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, is far from convinced the nuclear test ban treaty is in the best interests of the United States and says if called upon to ballot now, he would vote "no."

The Senate must approve the treaty by a two-thirds margin for it to be ratified. He will reserve his final judgment "until I hear all the testimony," Lausche told 1,000 members of the United Hungarian Societies of Cleveland Sunday in Euclid Beach Park.

Germans Risk Lives for Freedoms 'That Americans Take for Granted'

EDITORS NOTE—The author of this article is one of the hundreds of East Germans who have escaped to the West despite the Berlin wall, barbed wire, mine fields and trigger-happy guards. On the eve of the second anniversary of the wall, she recalls her life behind it and the reasons people risk their lives to escape. She uses a pseudonym to protect her family and friends still in East Germany.

won't go into details. But we read every few days of the dangers people run to escape. They scale the Berlin wall in a hail of bullets. They swim the icy Havel River in freezing weather. They crawl through tunnels that might cave at any moment or run across mine fields that could blow them up at any step. Some are killed by Communist border guards.

What drives people to gamble their lives in order to leave their homes? It might sound strange to American ears, but I'm sure the chief reason is the longing for freedom to think and do what one wants. The simple freedoms that Americans take for granted are worth a life to many East Germans.

It is simply that after a while you can't breathe any more. You are too restricted. Your ideas count for nothing if they do not agree with those of the Communists. Your individual wishes are ignored. A person's individuality and freedom count for nothing. This is what people learn to hate. This is why they leave.

What did I personally dislike most? I think it was the way children were treated. Probably more parents leave East Germany for the sake of their children than for any other reason. I clearly remember Aug. 13, 1961. For years my husband and I felt we should stay in East Germany. One has a responsibility to one's home and people, and problems are not solved by running away.

But we had finally decided to flee and our two children had already gone to the West. We planned to follow after a short vacation in a health resort. There we heard the news of Aug. 13.

Our hearts sank. Our escape route was blocked. It took nearly two years to find a way out. The one good the wall did was to wake people to the horror of communism.

By KATERINA THOMAS
FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—I lived for 16 months behind the Berlin wall. Except for the year my husband spent in jail during the height of Stalinist frenzy back in 1952-53, they were my worst months under communism.

Eight months ago my husband and I managed to escape. It meant leaving a large family home and garden where we had spent 24 happy married years. It meant leaving behind almost everything we owned, including the worthless sentimental things a woman treasures. It meant leaving friends with whom we shared hard and unforgettable years.

It was a sacrifice and a great risk. Other people might still escape by the route we took so I

Views on TV - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The favorite indoor and poolside sport of this show business town now, as always in late summer, is predicting next season's hit television shows.

The community is full of self-proclaimed experts on the subject, and the most fascinating aspect of the game is that almost anybody can be right.

After two weeks of visiting television sets, talking with producers, directors, stars, executives and, of course, press agents, I have been assured that every new series encountered undoubtedly will be a hit.

For what preseason talk is worth, there's a lot about the incoming NBC Bill Dana comedy series. By coincidence it will occupy the Sunday night spot vacated by "Ensign O'Toole," which received the same kind of talk last year at this time but survived for only one season.

CBS' "My Favorite Martian" also is a Sunday evening entry and the subject for particularly enthusiastic predictions. This is unusual in that it will attempt to marry fantasy and satire in a comedy. It concerns the adventures of a visitor from another planet who arrives equipped with built-in antenna and assorted powers including ability to become invisible at will.

The theory is that the kiddies will enjoy the magic and the adults appreciate the satire and everybody will be happy. ABC and many of the crystal-ball gazers are expecting interesting response to "Burke's Law," an action series done in a debonair and sophisticated manner. It stars a millionaire man-about-town who is also a police detective.

A number of shows have been beset by production troubles. ABC's "Travels of Jaimie McPheeters" lost its producer by death; CBS removed the producer and took most of the writers off "The Judy Garland Show" after five shows had been taped; NBC's "Richard Boone Show," an anthology series, has been set back by the illness of playwright Clifford Odets, story editor of the series. But until premier dates in September and October the promise of each of the 32 new shows is bright.

24 Dayton Racial Demonstrators Nabbed

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Twenty-four racial demonstrators have been arrested in Dayton in the last three weeks. All are free on bond and waiting for trial dates to be set. Nine demonstrators were freed Sunday on bonds totaling $1,175. They had been arrested Saturday as they picketed at Rikes department store. All 24 arrests have been made at the store.

THEY WERE WEARING SEATBELTS—Andrew Docherty and his wife of Mundhall, Pa., said their seatbelts probably saved them from possible injury when their auto flipped over on Penn-Lincoln Parkway East in Pittsburgh.

Lausche Still Skeptical About Test Ban Pact

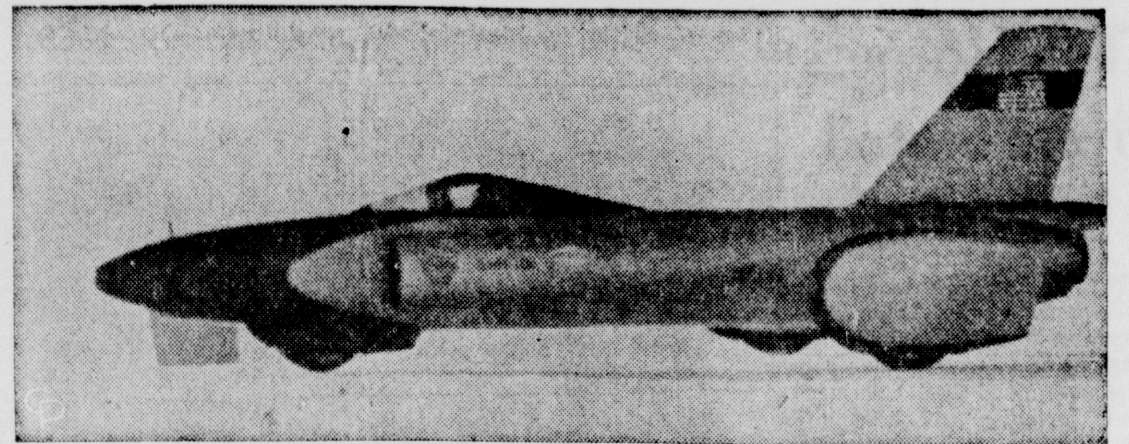

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, is far from convinced the nuclear test ban treaty is in the best interests of the United States and says if called upon to ballot now, he would vote "no." The Senate must approve the treaty by a two-thirds margin for it to be ratified. He will reserve his final judgment "until I hear all the testimony," Lausche told 1,000 members of the United Hungarian Societies of Cleveland Sunday in Euclid Beach Park.

Zanesville Labor Fuss Peace Is Not in Sight
